As you requested, there has been a social research on what affects student's attendance and participation in school events. The results are given in chart below.

As the research shows, the main reason of going to school events is the enjoyable experience people get there. Eighty-eight percent of students think it is an important reason to go to special events. Also, involvement in school activities itself is becoming a popular trend nowadays, probably because active school life teaches students to be 'useful' and have fun at the same time. School life has the second biggest percentage of people considering it a major reason to go to school events.

Surprisingly, almost no one would go to a performance just because it is a popular annual event. Lots of students do not consider it a reason at all. It might happen because young people rarely accept following the traditions and customs - they care much more about having fun alone or with friends. Better results are shown by meeting and supporting family and friends. There is no surprise - people always love a good company. We would recommend you to increase the number of group activities in your events, so that the participants will have more fun with their friends.

All in all, people adore ~~mas~~ events where they can earn some unique experience with their families and friends. You should increase the rate of group events and create new, unique activities the participants would enjoy. Also, you should rely less on firm dates and holidays, and not make all of your events according to customs and traditions.
