A report.

Our school provides its students with various events and activities to take part in. However, the number of those who attend school events is getting smaller and smaller.

For the majority of students feeling pleased and happy while participating is the main reason for attendance. 35 (percent) of students maintain the idea that school events are unpopular so they are not eager for going there.

As I can judge by the numbers, the (percentage) of those who supports somebody while attending is almost equal to the percentage of those who is willing to be involved into school activities. Then, for 28% of students getting to see their fellows and gaining some knowledge are minor reasons for taking part in school events.

Meanwhile only 4% of young people dislike the emotions they get while being a part of the event. Consequently, students enjoy what is offered.

Being responsible for the report, I can recommend a few things. To somehow (affect) students organizers should run some competitions to make activities more exciting. Moreover, I would recommend to include some activities connected with computer science as this topic is a (trend) nowadays.

To sum it up, event organizers do a great job. The only thing left to do is to make activities less old-fashioned to (attract) more people. I hope that with all these recommendations the numbers will increase.
