THE REPORT

ANALYSES OF THE ATTENDANCE OF MUSEUMS AND GALLERIES.

The research was conducted to collect the information on the attendance of museums and galleries in England. The aim of this report is to analyse the data and compare the results for 2013, 2015 and 2017.

The chart shows that the first three museums have increased in popularity while the last ones ^{have} lost some visitors, judging by the amount of visitors each year.

Some shifts of the attendance can also be noticed. To begin with, the British Museum was one of the least popular in 2013, however, it has gained popularity in 2015 and 2017. In 2017 it appealed to more people than other's museums and galleries. The Science Museum has lost 2.2 mln visitors over the four years. The attendance of the Tate Gallery has doubled (0.9 mln and 2.2 mln visitors in 2013 and 2017 respectively) whereas the Natural History Museum lost about a half of its visitors.

Some recommendations can be given to increase people's attendance. Firstly, more exhibitions dedicated to different themes should be held. They will attract more visitors as people are interested in discovering something that they have never seen in this museum or gallery before. At the rate from 1 to 10 this method gets 10 points as the most effective. Secondly, it is advised to make more cafés where people can relax and have a snack. so their visit will be more pleasant.

visiting the museum or gallery

Considering everything, most museums^{and galleries} increased in popularity during the last years though some lost its visitors. Some actions should be taken to increase the attendance: to held more exhibitions and make more cafe's.
