The purpose of this report is to work out ways of increasing the number of visitations to national museums and galleries in England.

A research carried out by Social Statistics shows that number of visitations to museums and galleries between 2013 and 2017 has drawn down. What also could be seen from the research is the fact that museums, which introduced admission charges in 2014 have lost a significant number of visitors - Natural History Museum and Science Museum have lost 1.8 and 2.2 million people respectively.

On the other hand, museums which did not introduce any charges have experienced a rapid growth in number of visitors. For example, between 2013 and 2015 British Museum ~~has~~ accumulated over two million visitors, while Natural History Museum ~~has~~ lost over two million visitors! At the same time British Museum ~~has experienced~~ the biggest growth in the amount of visitors and had the highest rate during the time period between 2013 and 2015 in comparison to the second most famous museum - National Gallery. These museums have accumulated 2.5 and 1.6 ~~million~~ million visitors between 2013 and 2015 respectively.

In order to boost the number of visitors I would recommend removing or reducing admission fees, as it reduces the number of visitations drastically. Another measure that could be taken ~~in order~~ to increase the number of visits is to interact with the public more and make advertising campaigns to appeal to <sup>the</sup> wider audience.

Overall, it is substantial to make the museum more attractive and appealing to the public in order to increase the number of visits.
