~~Due to the fact that~~ The substantial part of the national income of the UK is related to tourism. <sup>consequently</sup> the importance of this report, whose main aim is to draw on the tendencies in the attendance of museums and galleries in England, is ~~rather~~ obvious.

According to the ~~gathered~~ data the trend in visiting national museums and galleries in England in the last years is upward. All of the museums have a rise in their rates since 2015.

The other ~~outstanding~~ feature is ~~the~~<sup>a</sup> sudden drop in the number of visitors between 2013 and 2015 in <sup>the</sup> Natural History Museum and Science Museum (from 3,7 to 1,6 and from 3,8 to 1,3 respectively). It is fair to connect this fall with the introduction of charges in 2014.

Making comparisons between ~~the~~<sup>in</sup> museums, we can notice that the British Museums, that started as the least popular museum in 2013, ~~increased in the number of visitors and~~<sup>in 2017</sup> became the leader among ~~three~~<sup>the rest</sup> museums with 5,6 million visitors.

Comparing ~~the~~<sup>the</sup> gallery the National Gallery and the Tate Gallery, it could be claimed that the first one exceeds the other ~~during~~ the whole period.

In order to attract more people to ~~the~~ national English museums and galleries some measures could be taken ~~by~~ the museum authorities. ~~To start with~~<sup>First</sup>, the Natural History Museum and the Science Museums are suggested lowering the price of tickets as they would not lose their profit but attract more people ~~willing~~ to pay ~~for~~ for the entrance.
